

ROMA

Rosemary Rowan Tyler, known as Roma, born in New England, and while attending Massachusetts School of Art and New York School of Design, found her great desire to paint nature. She has traveled the world studying and admiring art, and has indeed transformed her childhood dream into impressive reality. Her love for painting has guided her in creating powerful seascapes. She has studied with some of the most popular artists of today including E. John Robinson, who has had a great impact on her styling. All that she has experienced helps turn the blank canvas into a subject that allows the viewer to search through nature and feel the deep force of life. Although seascapes are her first love, you can also see the beauty of nature through her flowers and landscapes. Roma was recently accepted to the Santa Fe Art World and is a member of the American Society of Marine Artists, and the Oil Painters of America.
